Paroa: The Story of Mariposa) is a Philippine television drama fantasy series broadcast by the GMA Network. Directed by Mark A. Reyes, it stars Barbie Fortes in the title role. It originally aired on the Telebabad line on November 5, 2012, replacing Moon Embracing the Sun. The series ended on March 1, 2013 with a total of 85 episodes. He was replaced forever in his time slot. The premise of Mariposa, a girl who belongs to the kingdom of butterflies of people known as Paroa. However, it will grow in the human world because their kingdom has been destroyed. Her mother, Aurora, the queen of Paroa, will save her from the destruction of their kingdom. Thus, Mariposa will grow up under the tutelage of Amalia, who treats her as her own child, despite her strange looks - Mariposa's skin looks like a woolly worm. Despite the fact that people ridicule her appearance, Mariposa will still have a cheerful and optimistic temper. Meanwhile, Inigo will grow up to hate Paroa because her mother Rosanna told him that his father died because of them. He's going to be Mariposa's classmate. He has a bad boy image and always gets kicked out of school, so he's still in his sophomore year. Inigo and Mariposa will be friends, but because of peer pressure, he will also mock and ridicule Mariposa. However, when Mariposa turns into a beautiful Paroa, Inigo will love and develop feelings for her, not knowing that she is the same girl he mocked and at the same time Paroa, which he grew up hating. The main character - Probinyan (country girl) named Maya (Erich Gonzalez). Maya, however, is not the typical probinsiyana - it kills and skins wild monitor lizards that feed on their living stocks. Maya receives a telegram from her sister's friend Vivian (Ma. Isabel Lopez) obliges her to take a trip to the city about something important and that her sister Mona needs her. In the city of Maya discovers that her sister is already dead. Maya must collect 40,000 pesos to claim her sister's body or it will be sold to a local university. Maya, innocent and all asks about the sticky tattoo with the name Carlos on her sister's arm. Maya suggests that Carlos must be someone special and perhaps can help her in claiming that her sister is from the morgue. Troubled Vivian paves the way. Maya will reveal the terrible truths about her sister and what happened to her in the journey that takes her to the darkest, ...
